

Lesson 4 - The Lost Thing - Write up of ending

We are going to be writing a paragraph a day.
Plan for the week to write our story:

Tuesday	Writing the build-up
Wednesday	Writing the problem
Thursday	Writing the resolution
Friday	Writing the ending

This week we are going to be writing our own version of The Lost Thing using our own creature.
This is the grammar we are going to focus on:

Fronted
adverbials

Subordinating
conjunctions

Adverbials
of how

Powerful adjectives

Example of an ending section

When the door had fully opened, it revealed this amazing, colorful and energetic world. Everything looked so happy. High above our heads, there were triangular, striped kites that were floating higher and higher. Underneath the vibrant, colourful sky, all Lost Thing creatures bounced around with joy. Emerging from the heaped, sandy hills, was a humungous, metal whale that snapped its jaws so loudly and wagged its robotic tail. I knew the Lost Thing would be happy here. We gave each other a big hug and the Lost Thing skipped happily towards the vibrant walls. After I had left the Lost Thing, I trotted over to Hannah's house to tell her about this amazing world. I still thought about the Lost Thing from time to time and remembered that magnificent day we spent together.

Write a couple of sentences for each point.
Think about the grammar you could use.

Ending needs to include:

- ☐ What the opened door revealed
- ☐ Describing the Lost Thing world and things in it (adjectives & fronted adverbials) As much description as possible
- ☐ Saying goodbye to the Lost Thing - Did you hug, wave, do a secret handshake
- ☐ The Lost Thing going into the world and how it felt
- ☐ Explain what you did after and how it effected you

Examples of this grammar from last week:

Fronted adverbials	Powerful adjectives		Adverbials of how	Subordinating clause (conjunctions in bold)
Beside the grey, cracked pavement, Underneath the vibrant, colourful sky, Amongst the bustling, mundane crowds, On top of his uncontrollable, steel tentacles, Beneath it's peculiar-shaped eyes, Emerging from his rusty, rounded head, Below the immense, concrete buildings, Through the beige, dusty sand,	Bizarre Enormous Elegant Feeble Ghastly Slippery Damaged Muscular Menacing Revolting Pleasant Unkempt Dismal Radiant peaceful	Affectionate Bold Crooked Immense Microscopic Lively Unappealing Scrawny Gleaming Drab prickly	Quickly Slowly Carefully Tirelessly Enthusiastically Gracefully Happily Effortlessly Rarely Gently Loudly	Once Hannah had experimented on it, Before the Lost Thing left my house, When no-one came to collect it, While my parents relaxed infront of the TV, If I didn't keep it safe, After my parents had gone to bed,